

Contact: Alisha Rodriguez 201.271.3600 ext 204

April 3, 2009

2009 NCAA SLAM DUNK CHAMPIONSHIP RUNNER UP Charlie Coley III
MAKES AN APPEARANCE WITH THE HARLEM WIZARDS.

Recently, Charlie Coley, played with the Harlem Wizards in Manasquan, NJ, at Manasquan HS. That Sunday appearance began an exciting week for this high flying UNC Charlotte standout. Beginning the week by playing with this storied show basketball team whose slogan is Tricks, Hoops, and Alley-Oops. And a Whole Lot More!

Then Charlie flew back to Charlotte on Monday, in time for his class in African-American studies. Then a few days later, on his way to Detroit for the slam dunk championship, where he wowed the crowd with his two perfect dunks, one a Dr. J like reverse twist, and the other a slam over the winner of the three point shootout. He ended up one point shy of victory in the overtime round, and is the 2009 runner up.

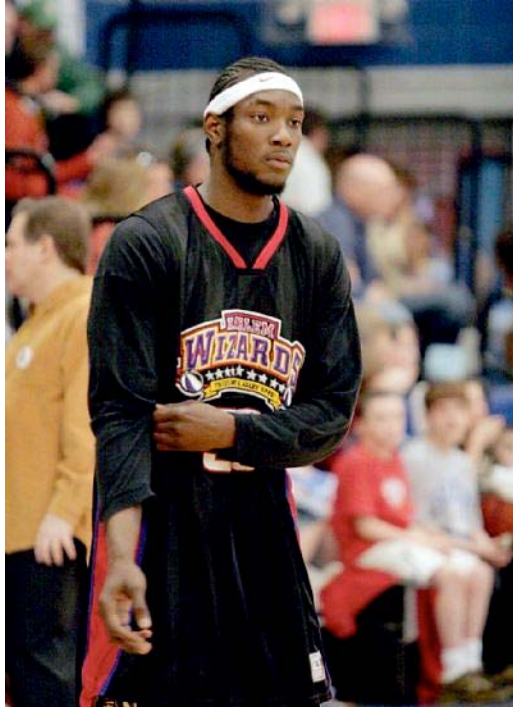

Todd Davis, the Harlem Wizards President said "In the Wizards game he wowed not only the crowd, but our other players. The play that stood out was a sequence where a defender ran underneath him, and Charlie already at full speed and rising had to adjust and jump over the defender, and took everyone's breath away with a monster slam".

Davis said, "Charlie is super talented, has a flair for the dramatic and also is a good kid. We will be talking to Charlie and hope to have him on the Wizards roster for the 09-10 season."

Here is a highlight reel of his NCAA Dunk Contest dunks taken from U Tube

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=R03A25ZfvB8>

Additionally a photo is attached from Charlie's Wizard appearance.

###